

Fellowship Village Continuing Care Retirement Center

Bernards Township, New Jersey

Landscape designs for this Continuing Care Retirement Village of 440 units located on a 120- acre site initially included plantings around a new phase of cluster housing units and designs for a relocated children's summer camp. The work also included the design of a hospital courtyard for Alzheimer's patients, which contains patios, sitting areas, a putting green, raised plant beds for wheelchair gardening, and a wide variety of shrubs and perennials which provide a continuous display of color from season to season. The courtyard also includes a small pond with fish, and a "woodland walk", where patients can enjoy the sights and smells of walking through a lush, heavily planted area, even though they are within the safe confines of a hospital courtyard. The clients have been delighted with the appearance of this courtyard, and have been taking advantage of its therapeutic values for the patients.
